Tweeting a picture of your boobs is an insult to the rest of us. One very lucky shorty took home a $5,000 grand prize in a breast cancer awareness contest. And her prize is breast prostheses. One of the state's most popular charities, Operation Olympia, presents annual contests in which breast cancer survivors are asked to take selfies with naked boobs of matching size. The winner of this year's contest posed for a photo of a bare breast, with her name on it, then tweeted it. Now a group of breast cancer patients is suing, claiming that it stole their ideas. This week, a federal judge is hearing arguments in the lawsuit. It's being heard in US District Court in Los Angeles. They claim that Operation Olympia stole their idea by publishing a magazine called Cervix!, about cervical cancer. The judge will decide whether the group suing has enough evidence to prevail in a lawsuit. Whether it's the Halloween season or not, this is a good time of year for weird and crazy weddings. This bride is the first in the state to be married by a robot. This bride took the idea of doing her own wedding so seriously that she made a wedding cake out of the robot. And this guy will soon marry the most lady-like human on earth. A South Korean court has acquitted a man on the grounds that he and the woman he married are only half-human. The man, who was apparently drunk at the time of the wedding, was granted a divorce. In September, a court ordered him to pay a hefty sum of money to his wife. The verdict says he probably won't have to pay a cent. The judge also found that the man and woman are of equal worth, despite the man's conviction. The couple married during a Hindu ceremony at a temple on South Korea's Jeju Island. They spent much of the ceremony unaware that the judge was presiding. There were no witnesses to the ceremony because none of the pair's parents were there. The woman's mother arrived 40 minutes into the ceremony - and the man's father didn't arrive until after it had finished. The man and his wife are now facing a legal battle with the Civil Court after she changed her mind about a divorce after an ordeal lasting four years. A family court in Seoul ruled against the woman, saying

I was able to do that with a loop but it doesn't scale well, plus I have about 200 data frames. For example, if df1.A == df2.A then df1.B should be returned. df2=df1.copy() for i in range(len(df2)): if df1['A'][i] == df2['A'][i] and df1['B'][i]== df2['B'][i]: df1.drop('A',axis=0,inplace=True)
